

POLICE CAN CLEAR MYSTERY OF THEIR MISSING COMRADE

Other Bluecoats Know Secret of Judge's Disappearance, Burfeind Finds.

LAST SEEN INTOXICATED

Men on Post in East 22d Street Precinct Early on Dec. 3

Tell Different Stories.

After a futile, scattering search for Policeman James J. Judge of the Bronx Park precinct, who disappeared on Dec. 2, Capt. Burfeind of the East Twenty-second street station got down to an inside investigation to-day and closely questioned the policemen of his own precinct. From what he has learned it appears that two or more policemen were on east side posts between Fourteenth and Twenty-third streets on the night of Dec. 2, knew enough about the Judge's disappearance to clear it up.

A report that Deputy Police Commissioner Flynn had ordered a search of all the manholes and sewers in the vicinity of Judge's home, No. 226 East Twenty-seventh street, has been found to be inaccurate. This report grew out of rumors that Judge had been killed by members of an east side gang in mistake for Policeman Michael J. Judge of the East Thirty-fifth street station, who lives at No. 517 First avenue.

Michael J. Judge has lived in the vicinity of his present home from boyhood. Everybody in that section knows him. He went to school with several young men who were mentioned as persons who might have mistaken James J. Judge for him. Michael Judge, at the time of James Judge's disappearance, was on special duty at a garage in East Forty-first street, and it was generally known in his neighborhood that he was on special strike duty.

Policeman Kept Silent.

Capt. Burfeind's investigation to-day brought out a story from a patrolman named Hoffman, which locates Judge at the corner of Third and Second streets on the morning of Dec. 3. Although Hoffman has known that Judge's disappearance has been a matter of police investigation for a week, he did not tell his story until to-day.

His post on the night of Dec. 2 was in Third avenue between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-seventh streets. At 2:10 o'clock in the morning he started south in Third avenue to meet his relief. Four or five young men in a group met him at Twenty-fifth street and Third avenue and told him that a policeman, so intoxicated that he could hardly walk, was wandering about in Twenty-fourth street between Third and Second avenues.

Hoffman told Capt. Burfeind that he went to Twenty-fourth street and started through toward Second avenue. He met two milkmen, who told him they had seen a policeman, apparently intoxicated, at Twenty-fourth street and Second avenue. At that corner, Hoffman said, he could find no trace of the policeman. Then he went back to Third avenue and started south toward the station house.

At Twenty-third street he met another policeman of the East Twenty-second precinct and told him of the incident. After hearing this story,

Capt. Burfeind sent for the policeman Hoffman had named.

Denied Meeting Hoffman.

This policeman promptly denied that he had met Hoffman at Twenty-third street. He produced his book to show that on the night of Dec. 2 he was on post eight blocks south of Twenty-third street. The station house blotter confirmed the policeman's story. But Hoffman stuck to his story, although, after some time, he admitted that he might have been mistaken. When pressed again to name the policeman he met, he said he could not remember anybody else but the man he had named.

James J. Judge had a fight with another policeman a short time before his disappearance. They lived in the same house. Capt. Burfeind was struck by the fact that the man with whom Judge had the fight was the same man Hoffman said he met at Twenty-third street and Third avenue a few minutes after Judge dropped out of sight at Twenty-fourth street and Second avenue. Hoffman's statement adds another hour to the timetable of Judge's whereabouts on the night of his disappearance. It is known that he bought whiskey at a drug store at Twenty-seventh street and Lexington avenue at 12 o'clock, that he went to O'Neill's saloon at Twenty-seventh street and Third avenue, took some of the pulque and drank some whiskey and left the saloon about 1:15 o'clock.

John Sheridan, the night bartender at O'Neill's, says he thinks Judge started for his home, a few doors east in Twenty-seventh street. But Hoffman's story indicates that Judge was down in Twenty-fourth street an hour later.

SCHOOL GIRL'S DEATH NOT DUE TO POISONED CANDY

Coroner's Physician Finds That Meningitis Killed Eight-Year-Old Anna Fretykoff.

Coroner's Physician Schultze issued to-day a certificate giving spinal meningitis as the cause of the death of eight-year-old Anna Fretykoff of No. 54 East One Hundred and Eleventh street. The child's parents had been of the opinion that she had died from eating poisoned candy bought at a store near Public School No. 57 in East One Hundred and Fifteenth street.

Anna came home from school yesterday complaining of pains in her head. She became unconscious and her parents sent for Dr. Samuel D. Douglas. She died in a few hours.

A schoolmate recalled that Anna Tammenath of No. 206 East Ninety-eighth street, also a pupil in Public School No. 57, was recovering in the Harlem Hospital from eating candy supposed to have contained poison. The parents of Anna Fretykoff accordingly reported her death as possibly due to the same cause. There will be no autopsy.

ELECTION BOARD PROBE.

Commissioner Foodick on Trail of Abuses Alleged by Organizations.

Commissioner of Accounts Foodick to-day began investigating the Board of Elections, as ordered by Mayor Gaynor. The Citizens' Union and the City Club complained that the board had been perfunctory in examining applicants for jobs as inspectors.

Out of 14,578 men examined in 1908 only 18 were rejected. In 1909, of 14,637 applicants examined only 66 were rejected. The joint complaint described the examinations as farcical and added that answers to questions submitted were handed out in advance.

ADRIATIC LEAVES BEHIND 210 BAGS OF HOLIDAY MAIL

Liner Takes 2,000 Sacks but Clerk Has to Climb Ladder With Manifest.

After 2,000 bags of Christmas mail had been put aboard the White Star liner Adriatic this morning and it was 9:35 o'clock, almost thirty-five minutes past her sailing time, Assistant Vice-President of the line John Tappan started to give the signal to haul in the gangplank.

G. P. Dougherty, the mail clerk assigned to the ship, objected that there were 210 bags of mail to come. Tappan said it was up to the Post-Office Department to get the mail on board in time, but as the manifest Dougherty had brought from the Post-Office listed 2,210 bags of mail, the Assistant Vice-President agreed to wait a few minutes longer. He waited till 9:55 and then gave the signal.

The mail clerk was still on the lower deck of the pier, and before he could get up the gangplank was in and the liner was warring out from the dock. Mr. Tappan refused to order the gangplank out again and told Dougherty if he wanted to get aboard he would have to go out in a tug and climb up the Jacob's ladder over the side.

Though he objected strenuously, that was how Dougherty got aboard. The delayed 210 bags of mail arrived five minutes after the Adriatic had left her pier and will not get out till to-morrow on a French liner.

Among the passengers who sailed on the Adriatic were the Rev. N. S. Trainford and Baroness Rosen, wife of the German Ambassador.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 15 pints of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 24 ounces of Pine (50 cents) worth in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. It soothes and all the natural fine elements of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps and a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It is pure and safe.

Pine is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is rich in quinine and all the natural fine elements which are so lacking to the membranes. Other remedies will not work in this form.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pine and Sugar Syrup for strained hoarseness has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equalled.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money refunded, is given with this bottle. Your druggist has Pine or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pine Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

We spent much time tuning up for Christmas.

Sent Santa Claus abroad last Spring to get a pack full of Leather and Metal gifts that were out of the ordinary.

One of the best finds was a "Kwikpak" collar case—invented by a British officer.

Shaving mirrors, too, that stick on window panes or any smooth surface. Bill folds of seal, grain leather and pigskin; coin purses, card cases and dressing cases.

Silver pencils and penholders, writing portfolios, and desk fittings.

We've not forgotten that man owes something to himself, even at Christmas time.

Warm underwear, for one thing. So we've four different weights of Dermophile in the natural shade, and two weights in white.

Dermophile, though pure Australian wool, is absolutely unshrinkable.

Hale and Hearty at 81

From a helpless invalid, owing to a weakened, run-down condition of the system, to a vigorous man of 81 years of age, is the experience that Mr. Wm. H. Haines, a Grand Army Veteran, has passed through during the last few years, owing to the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as his only medicine.

In writing to a friend he said: "To-day I am strong and vigorous for a man of my age, 81 years, my present physical condition being vastly different from what it was a few years ago, thanks to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I was almost a helpless invalid before using this medicine, had kidney trouble and frequent dizzy spells, no appetite and my legs were so weak that I walked with great difficulty. I had always led a very active outdoor life and felt my weakened condition keenly. I started using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as directed and after a short time my improvement was so marked that I have continued its use and am a well man again. I have gained in weight, have an excellent appetite and know that I owe my present condition to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I do not know what I should do without it." Wm. H. Haines, 34 Paris St., Everett, Mass.

When you feel weak and run down and all out of sorts, you need a pure tonic-stimulant that will build you up, enrich your blood, quicken your heart action and restore your strength in a gradual, healthy manner.
